"Give him to us! We will kill him!" About one hundred belligerent men had gathered in front of the tent, calling for me.

Greg Vernovage, an American mountain guide, and Melissa (Arnot) guarded the tent and tried to keep the Sherpas at bay. A lone Sherpa, Pang Nuru, was standing next to them. He had nothing to do with us but was obviously perturbed by the situation and knew that this was just not right.

I could hear a fierce discussion. The Sherpas ordered me to come out. I would be the first they would beat to death, and when they had finished with me they would go for the other two.

I felt powerless and could not see a way out. How could we possibly turn the situation into our favor? What would happen to us? It was over. I couldn't do anything. My hands were tied.

I thought about how ridiculous the situation was. How many expeditions had I been on and then come back from in one piece? How many critical situations had I survived? And now I was crouching in a tent on Mount Everest, just about to be lynched by a mob of Sherpas. This was impossible and the whole situation so absurd that I had no hope. The Sherpas were incalculable, but I would probably not survive. I started to imagine how my life would end by stoning.

An insightful memoir from one of modern alpinism’s greatest athletes

- Steck is considered by many to be one of the strongest climbers who ever lived
- The holder of six amazing speed-climbing records
- The first and only English-language book by this much loved alpinist

A climber of incredible strength, Ueli Steck set climbing records for speed and endurance that no one had previously thought possible. This deeply personal and revealing memoir, Ueli Steck: My Life in Climbing, is the Swiss climber’s only book published in English.

In 2016, Ueli established a new speed record on the Eiger’s North Face—beating his own record! That same year he climbed all 82 four-thousand-meter peaks in the Alps within 62 days (traveling between the peaks by bicycle), and summited Annapurna’s south face in 28 hours. But the dramatic events of the previous two years—the internationally reported conflict with Sherpas at Mount Everest, and the discovery of Alex Lowe’s body on Shishapangma—changed him and made him rethink his approach to the mountains.

After withdrawing from the sport for a period, Ueli rediscovered his love of climbing, and in this memoir he explains how his perspective changed. While his drive to achieve in the mountains hadn’t diminished, evaluating his experiences helped him find a new way to process the emotional and mental challenges that shaped his athletic outlook. Structured around key climbs, Ueli Steck: My Life in Climbing provides the history of each mountain and route, Ueli’s reasons for attempting it, what happened on each climb, and what he learned from the experience. It also includes some fascinating insights into his training regimen.

Ueli infuses his story with the joy and freedom of climbing and running. He is honest and direct. Ultimately, his experiences brought him to a place of self-awareness, and he was no longer the same climber who first set the speed record on the Eiger’s North Face. Ueli was determined that he would take only acceptable risks. Unfortunately, Ueli’s bar for risk was still very high—he died while on a training climb on the Himalayan peak Nuptse on April 30, 2017.

Ueli Steck was born in 1976 and has been considered one of the world’s best extreme climbers, and the single most successful climber ever from Switzerland. At the age of 17, he mastered the highest rating of difficulty in climbing (9th level in UIAA), while his most spectacular achievement was perhaps the ascent in record time of each of the three most difficult north faces of the Alps. In 2008, Steck received the Eiger Award for his mountaineering achievements, and he was twice awarded the Piolet d’Or, the “Oscar of Mountaineering”: first in 2009 and again in 2014 for his first solo ascent of Annapurna.

A compelling story of wildland fires, from a fascinating exploration of wildfire science to a gripping moment-by-moment account of a Boulder blaze

- The author was embedded with one of the busiest US wildfire crews
- Reveals wildfires through the experiences of the people who go face-to-face with them
- Focuses on challenges faced in Western states

Every year wildfires ravage forests, destroy communities, and devastate human lives, with only the bravery of dedicated firefighters creating a barrier against even greater destruction. Throughout the 2016 wildfire season, journalist Heather Hansen witnessed firsthand the heroics of the Station 8 crew in Boulder, Colorado. In Wildfire, she tells that story, layered with the added context of the history, science, landscape, and human behavior that, year-by-year, increases the severity, frequency, and costs of conflagrations in the West. She examines the changes in both mindset and activity around wildfires and tracks the movement from wildfire as something useful, to something feared, to something necessary but roundly dreaded.

Wildfire shares the drama, hardships, and experiences of the firefighters who try, sometimes in vain, to prevent destruction when a spark flares out of control. Hansen tells the rich and frightening stories of the firefighters themselves and the challenges they face: a safety system struggling to keep up with fire seasons that are lengthening, fires that are becoming more extreme, and agencies that are struggling to cover the bills.

Heather Hansen is an award-winning reporter, specializing in environmental and travel journalism. Her work has appeared in High Country News, Men's Journal, Coastal Living, National Geographic Traveler, Smithsonian, Outside, and other publications, and she is the coauthor of the award-winning Disappearing Destinations: 37 Places in Peril and What Can Be Done to Help Save Them. Her book, Prophets and Moguls, Rangers and Rogues, Bison and Bears: 100 Years of the National Park Service, published by Mountaineers Books, won the Colorado Authors’ League General Nonfiction award and was a finalist for the Colorado Book Award. Heather lives in Boulder.

Healthy and creative recipes that offer real camp food for all levels of adventure!

- More than 120 deliciously modern recipes for day trips, car camping, and backcountry adventures
- Offers a fun and easy approach to planning and prepping camp food
- The Dirty Gourmet authors were recently featured in Sunset magazine and other national media

“Dirty Gourmet” is really a lifestyle, one that celebrates delicious food, warm company, and outdoor fun. It emerged as a website and blog when friends Aimee Trudeau, Emily Nielson, and Mai-Yan Kwan joined forces to share their love of wilderness, outdoor education experiences, and knowledge of backcountry cooking through classes, workshops, catering events, and easy yet exciting recipes.

Now, their new book, Dirty Gourmet: Food for Your Outdoor Adventures, extends their mission to get more people to eat well outdoors and have fun doing it. It emphasizes healthy eating with fresh ingredients, efficient techniques, and global flavors. Breakfast, trail meals, sweet and savory snacks, dinners, appetizers, side dishes, desserts, even refreshing camp drinks—it’s all here! Camp cooks can choose recipes based on the type of activity they are pursuing—from picnics, day hikes, and car camping to backcountry adventures by foot, bike, or paddle—as well as find recipes perfect for large groups.

To simplify packing and planning, each section offers a base kit checklist of needed supplies along with tips on getting organized, preparing ingredients, and cooking with different methods. Complemented by full-color photos, each recipe features insights from the authors, any additional tools needed, quick-reference icons, step-by-step instructions for what to prepare at home and in camp, plus creative variations.

Aimee Trudeau’s interest in food has been a lifelong obsession. She studied food science in college and experiments regularly with dehydrating, baking, and fermenting techniques. She lives in Valencia, California. A former outdoor science teacher, Emily Nielson currently works at REI and is always looking for tricks to make outdoor cooking quick, easy, and tasty. She lives in Upland, California. Mai-Yan Kwan’s wide-ranging food interests are influenced by her Chinese and French-Canadian background. She is a graphic designer and teaches at Art Center College of Design. She lives in Los Angeles.

SWIMMING HOLES OF WASHINGTON
PERFECT PLACES TO PLAY
ANNA KATZ AND SHANE ROBINSON

AVAILABLE IN JUNE

A guidebook for those who love swimming, gentle woodland adventure, and swinging out over a pool of cool, clear water

- Provides water lovers with a host of fun destinations
- Includes swimming gems from drive-ups to hike-ins, in the city to out in the country
- Appeals to all ages, fitness types, and income levels—admission fees not required

Finally a guidebook for swimmers! There is no shortage of guides for places to hike, climb, and paddle in Western Washington, but not much on how to find perfect places to swim. Now Swimming Holes of Washington fills that, er, hole. It’s the ultimate list for water lovers who want to find gorgeous and fun places to make a splash.

Everyone from hardcore hikers to families out for a picnic and plunge will enjoy this guide to a universally loved activity. Authors Anna Katz and Shane Robinson literally dove into their research to find the best swimming holes to share. They set the bar high: cleanliness and clarity of the water is paramount, but the beauty of the surrounding area, the company (or wonderful lack thereof), and the effort involved in getting there are also taken into account.

This lavishly illustrated, full-color guide includes:
- 70 prime swimming holes, mainly in the Cascades and Olympics, with an emphasis on natural swimming locations
- Description of each location, including insider tips, type of swimming hole, best season to go, and its features and amenities
- Detailed access information
- Trail maps to the more remote holes
- Information on swimming safety, etiquette, types of water holes, gear, and more

Anna Katz is a writer and editor at Girl Friday Productions who has worked in the health, fitness, and lifestyle fields for many years. She lives in Seattle with her husband Troy, and swims pretty much every week. Shane Robinson is a professional ski guide, who is both AMGA and AIARE certified, and is an exploratory whitewater kayaker. His writing has been featured in Paddler and Kayak Session magazines, among other publications. He lives in North Bend, Washington.

Best-selling guidebook pro gathers together the top trails in his home state, taking the guesswork out of choosing a great hike every time

- A breathtakingly beautiful state gets a feature-packed, full-color guidebook worthy of its scenery
- Includes a range of outings from easy to strenuous, day hikes to backpacks
- Every hike showcases something special, from views to lakes to geological features and more

Written by best-selling guidebook author Douglas Lorain, 100 Classic Hikes: Montana describes hikes in all corners of the state, including the vast eastern Montana prairies around the Bitter Creek, the fluted terrain of Makoshika State Park outside of Glendive; and the unusual natural bridges in the Terry Badlands near Ekalaka. Most of the trips, however, are scattered around the mountains of western Montana in renowned places like the Bitterroot Range, Anaconda-Pintler Wilderness, Sapphire Range, Madison Range, Crazy Mountains, Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex, and, of course, Glacier National Park. The emphasis is on day hikes, but Lorain also includes backpacking excursions for those looking for a more extended adventure.

Montana has always been a destination tourist state, especially for hikers who consistently rate Glacier National Park as the premier hiker’s national park in the country. Now they have the premier guide to this stunning and diverse landscape.

Hiker and writer Douglas Lorain has written eight previous hiking and backpacking guidebooks. His 100 Classic Hikes: Oregon, also published by Mountaineers Books, won the National Outdoor Book Award for Best Guidebook. Doug and his wife live in Hamilton, Montana.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK: ADVENTURING WITH KIDS
HARLEY AND ABBY MCALLISTER

AVAILABLE IN JUNE

The latest addition to this new outdoor series helps parents teach children that nature offers a ton of real fun that virtual reality can't touch

• Fun for all ages in one of America's most stunning parks
• Easy-to-follow organization based on park's geography
• Kid-tested hikes, historic and natural sights, wildlife viewing, boating opportunities, and more

With an emphasis on outdoor education and fun and an approach that zeroes in on the best options for families, Glacier National Park: Adventuring with Kids is a great resource for parents and kids alike. The McAllisters have a refreshingly honest approach—they acknowledge that kids aren't going to be excited about views and that, just like adults, little ones and teenagers get cranky when they're cold or hungry. Parents will feel confident that the adventures they recommend are sure to please.

Abby McAllister is a trained educator and strategic planner and discovers teaching and learning opportunities wherever her family travels. An avid outdoorsman, Harley works as a project manager. Together, their goal is to inspire other families to get outside more often, and have fun doing it. They live in Spokane, Washington, and online at www.our4outdoors.com and www.nationalparkswithkids.com

DAY HIKING: GLACIER NATIONAL PARK AND WESTERN MONTANA
CABINETS • MISSION AND SWAN RANGES • MISSOULA • BITTERROOTS
AARON THEISEN

AVAILABLE IN JUNE

A fresh, modern guidebook designed for its appeal to Glacier National Park's 2.5 million annual visitors

• Popular hiking series now available for one of the nation's most-visited national parks
• Compact, attractive, two-color format with a full-color photo insert
• 125 awe-inspiring hikes throughout the storied "Glacier Country" region

Both Glacier National Park and the surrounding wilds of Western Montana are beloved by millions of visitors, new transplants, and long-time locals alike. A deep enthusiasm for nature is the common denominator and Day Hiking: Glacier National Park and Western Montana has been written for these folks.

This new guidebook features 125 hikes, with outings to suit all ages and fitness levels. While the national park forms the centerpiece, the guide covers the major recreation areas throughout Western Montana. Weekend-worthy wilderness hikes await explorers in: the 100,000-acre Cabinet Mountains Wilderness, where alpine lakes hide among sheer shelves of rock; the Scotchman Peaks, which house millennia-old trees beneath their rugged, brushy summits; the shallow, grass-fringed pools of Ten Lakes Scenic Area, just shy of the Canadian border in northwest Montana; and the jeweled basins of the Seeley–Swan Valley.

Aaron Theisen is an accomplished outdoor and travel writer and photographer. His work has appeared in numerous publications, including Backpacker, Northwest Travel and Life (where he is also a contributing editor), Montana, Distinctly Montana, Montana Outdoors, and Adventures NW. He is coauthor (with Craig Romano) of Day Hiking: Mount St. Helens. Aaron lives in Spokane, Washington.

Emergency field medicine for our four-legged partners
- Advice for keeping your dog healthy in the backcountry, including preventive and emergency care
- Descriptive photos and important points provided for easy reference
- Handy, compact carry-along size

We love bringing our dogs along on outdoor adventures, whether backpacking, hiking, or hunting, and they love coming just as much. But just like humans, our canine partners can suffer illnesses or accidents when we're in the backcountry, a long way from home. If your dog should seem sick, do you know how to check? What would you do if he suddenly collapsed? These and many other obvious and not so obvious health issues are described in Canine Field Medicine. Veterinarian Sid Gustafson provides tips on how to examine your dog, and what to do if he’s choking, coughing, wounded, bleeding, goes lame, or has a head injury. He discusses eyes, ears, and mouth health and the first aid that’s required for things like frostbite, heatstroke, hypothermia, and sunburn.

The point of every outdoor adventure is to have fun and come back safely. Being prepared for the worst is generally the best way to stack the odds of a successful outing in our favor—for humans and for our four-legged friends.

Sid Gustafson is a veterinarian who likes to say that he was raised by dogs and horses on the Montana ranch where he grew up. In addition to his veterinary practice, Sid is a university instructor and writer of both nonfiction and fiction. Learn more about his work at sidgustafson.blogspot.com.

AVAILBLE IN JUNE

An update of the popular full-color guidebook to Northern California
- Completely revised and updated
- Every trail rehiked, with 13 new hikes and 80 new photos
- GPS driving directions to every trailhead

No one knows this premier hiking region better than author John Soares, who now offers his fourth and fully updated edition of 100 Classic Hikes: Northern California. And while he’s still in love with many of the old trails, some of them have become unsafe or less accessible. The good news is that this gave him the chance to fall for some new trails, which are happily now included in this new edition.

The old-growth forests and multiple mountain ranges of Northern California beckon the 10 million urban inhabitants of the Bay Area—who need outdoor experiences BADLY! This new edition not only gets them to the best of nature not far from their door, but looks tremendous on an urban coffee table, too.

THE BEST BEARS EARS NATIONAL MONUMENT HIKES

MORGAN SJOGREN

AVAILABLE IN FEBRUARY

The best hikes in the nation's newest, and most controversial, national monument! This full-color guidebook highlights trails within the 1.35 million acre region of southeast Utah that received federal protection in 2016.

- The top 20 hikes in our country's newest monument
- Includes maps, trailhead directions, and details about the best trails
- Information on the prehistory and history of the region

Designated in December 2016 by President Barack Obama, Bears Ears National Monument covers 1.35 million acres of southeastern Utah. Inhabited for over 2,500 years, the area is rich with ancient culture and spectacular scenery.

The hikes in this book range from easy strolls suitable for families with children to extended adventures into remote corners of an incredible landscape. The Best Bears Ears National Monument Hikes will educate readers about the importance of protecting our public lands.

Morgan Sjogren runs wild with words about any place she can get to on two feet with a pen in her hand. Morgan is a freelance writer and photographer—her work has appeared in Trail Runner magazine, REI Trail Run Project, Women’s Running, and Competitor—and her storytelling focuses on human-powered exploration and adventure.

A lifelong runner, Morgan competes on the professional trail circuit where she ranked in the top 10 in the United States (sub-ultra distance) in 2016. A self-proclaimed nomad (known as “The Running Bum”), Morgan made Bears Ears her basecamp during the creation of this guidebook, living in her Jeep Wrangler while training, writing, and exploring the incredibly varied landscape and unique terrain of this sacred place.

The compact size is perfect for hikers and backpackers.

Marlene Borneman has been hiking Colorado’s trails and mountains since 1974. She has climbed the 54 Colorado 14ers, 126 USGS named peaks in Rocky Mountain National Park, and 44 state High Points. Along the way she developed a deep passion for Colorado’s flora. Marlene has taught wildflower classes for the Rocky Mountain Conservancy, provided lectures and programs, and led wildflower hikes. She has earned her Native Plant Master Certification and won photography awards from the Colorado Native Plant Society.

Marlene is the author of The Best Front Range Wildflower Hikes pack guide, also published by CMC Press. She has been a member of the Colorado Mountain Club since 1979 and is also a member of the Colorado Native Plant Society. Marlene and her husband enjoy hiking, climbing, skiing, and backpacking in Colorado’s mountains and beyond. They also delight in exploring the outdoors with their grandchildren.

THE COLORADO 14ERS
THE STANDARD ROUTES, 2ND EDITION
COLORADO MOUNTAIN CLUB FOUNDATION

AVAILABLE IN MARCH

Updated with the latest trail info, revised maps, and new photos, this is the must-have guidebook for 14er peakbaggers.

- The authoritative guide to climbing the highest peaks in Colorado
- Updated trail information and new maps
- Covers the most popular and best-maintained trails

Fully revised, The Colorado 14ers: The Standard Routes is the definitive guidebook from the people who volunteer countless hours building trails, educating hikers, and working with land management agencies. The spectacular photography by Todd Caudle provides inspiration to get out and achieve those summits.

To climb all 54 of the 14,000-foot peaks in Colorado is truly an achievement, no matter how long it takes. This is the perfect book for anyone working their way through the list. The descriptions and maps provide the information you need for the best route to each summit.

The Colorado Mountain Club (CMC.org) and the Colorado Fourteeners Initiative (14ers.org) work together to protect the environment, maintain the trails, and educate the public.

180 pages, 6 x 9, 120 color photos, 45 maps, rounded corners, paperback, $24.95, ISBN 978-1-937052-57-7. RIGHTS: WORLD.

THE COLORADO TRAIL DATABOOK, 7TH EDITION

COLORADO TRAIL FOUNDATION

AVAILABLE IN MARCH

This is the must-have book for anyone hiking the world-famous Colorado Trail, or even parts of it. Tons of information is packed into a small easy-to-use format.

- Waterproof paper!
- Updates on trail changes and water locations
- Critical information on trail junctions and distances

The 486-mile Colorado Trail, extending from Denver to Durango, ranks as one of the best long trails in the world. Spectacular scenery and mostly good weather during the hiking season combine to draw people from all over. While the big guidebook gets into the details, this pocketable databook contains all the critical information to get you from start to finish without getting lost.

Formed in 1987, the Colorado Trail Foundation is the non-profit organization that completed and maintains the trail. They are the voice of authority and have walked the talk.

COLORADO SUMMIT HIKES, 2ND EDITION

DAVID MULLER

AVAILABLE IN APRIL

Over 100 great summits around the state, starting from very easy and working up to quite challenging. Spectacular views of Colorado reward the effort!

- 100+ routes with maps and photos
- Suitable for beginners to experts
- Unique Peak Finder helps identify distant summits

Start with short, easy hikes and work your way through the book to some of the most challenging summits in the state. Colorado Summit Hikes offers an excellent progression as you venture to some of the best viewpoints in the country.

No technical climbing is required for any of these hikes but you will want to be fit and have good outdoor savvy by the time you get to the more advanced hikes. This is a great guide for anyone just getting into hiking or who has recently moved to Colorado. And even the veteran peakbaggers will find worthwhile routes, some of which see little traffic.

Dave Muller has hiked in Colorado for nearly 50 years. He wrote a weekly outdoors column for the Denver Post for 17 years and is the author of seven other hiking guides including Colorado Lake Hikes and Hiking Colorado Wilderness Areas. A retired psychiatrist, Dave is originally from Washington, DC, before moving his family to Colorado in 1969.

Discover the Nellie Juan–College Fjord Wilderness Study Area in Prince William Sound, Alaska—a region rich in wilderness, wildlife, and thriving communities—and learn why it deserves permanent wilderness protection.

- The 2.1 million acres (equivalent to Yellowstone National Park) of the wilderness study area are coming under increasing threat by resource development.
- Essays of personal explorations of the region by an award-winning writer are accompanied by dramatic images from an award-winning photographer.
- The wilderness study area is home to the largest concentration of tidewater glaciers in America and hosts a vast diversity of terrestrial and aquatic mammals, birds, and fish.

It's been said that “a picture is worth a thousand words,” and nowhere is that more true than on the pages of A Wild Promise: Prince William Sound. The images of photographer Hugh Rose show you what this region holds—and what will be lost without protection from rampant resource development. Alongside Hugh’s images are eloquent essays covering the natural and cultural history, people, and fragility of this region by noted Alaskan writer Debbie Miller.

Alaska’s famed Prince William Sound includes more than 3,000 shore land miles of bays, coves, and deep fjords topped by the ice-capped peaks of the Chugach Mountains. More than 1 million tourists visit the region annually, and small family-owned fishing boats, ecotourism, oyster farms, and guide services provide sustainable livelihoods for year-round Alaskan residents. Many Americans first came to know of Prince William Sound through the Exxon Valdez oil spill of 1989—a catastrophe with lingering long-term effects, such as the collapse of the once abundant herring population, a critical fish in the marine food chain.

In A Wild Promise, readers travel alongside Hugh and Debbie as they hike and kayak from Columbia Glacier to College Fiord, exploring the Nellie Juan–College Fjord Wilderness Study Area, a region set aside for study in 1980, to be followed—it was hoped—by permanent protection from Congress. But for almost 40 years Congress has failed to act. Today, it is one of the most vulnerable public lands areas, and needs to be protected before its pristine wilderness is destroyed.

Early in her career, Debbie Miller taught school in Arctic Village, a small village in Alaska’s Brooks Range. For many years her family explored throughout Alaska and these outdoor adventures and encounters with wildlife inspired her to write more than a dozen natural history and children’s books. She is the author of On Arctic Ground and Midnight Wilderness, has contributed to several other titles, and serves on the board of the Alaska Wilderness League. Miller divides her time between Sitka, Alaska, and San Francisco, California. Learn more at www.debbiemilleralaska.com.

Hugh Rose is a trained geologist, naturalist, guide, and photographer specializing in landscapes and wildlife of the world’s polar regions. His photographs have appeared in a variety of books and other media, including Alaska Airlines Magazine, Outdoor Life, BBC, National Wildlife Federation, and numerous calendars. He lives in Fairbanks, Alaska. You can find him at www.hughrosephotography.com.

Redesigned maps with added features will entice any adventure cyclist to ride this route.

- All-new, seven-map set for the 20th anniversary edition
- NEW! South to north cues added
- NEW! 378 additional miles in Canada, 60 additional miles in Montana

The world’s longest mountain bike route at 3,146 miles, the Great Divide Mountain Bike Route (GDMBR) runs from Jasper, Alberta, Canada to the U.S./Mexico border at Antelope Wells, New Mexico on dirt and gravel roads, pavement, and short portions of single track.

#Canada - JASPER, ALBERTA TO ROOSVILLE, MONTANA (635 miles). Additional new routing now has the start of the GDMBR at Jasper, Alberta. The route heads southeast through spectacular scenery in the foothills of the Canadian Rocky Mountains. Elk Pass (6,443 feet) is used to cross the Continental Divide. The endpoint is Roosville, on the Canada/U.S. border. (ISBN 978-0-935108-76-7)

#1 ROOSVILLE, MONTANA TO HELENA, MONTANA (372 miles). This section of the GDMBR is entirely within Montana. It skirts the western border of Glacier National Park. The route goes through towns every 4-5 days for restocking supplies. This section is considered the most challenging of the entire route. It ends in Helena, Montana's state capital. (ISBN 978-0-935108-53-8)

#2 HELENA, MONTANA TO COLTER BAY, WYOMING (452 miles). Between Helena and Butte you’ll see signs of historic mining sites. Butte has museums and sites of interest. The route now traverses the broad open spaces of southwest Montana, a part of the state that could easily be responsible for the nickname “Big Sky Country.” The final part of this section enters Wyoming, cutting between Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks on the little-traveled Ashton-Flagg Road. (ISBN 978-0-935108-54-5)

#3 COLTER BAY, WYOMING TO RAWLINS, WYOMING (367 miles). Leaving Grand Teton National Park, a spur leads to Jackson, Wyoming. The route then goes through the wild and spectacular Teton country, and winds its way down to historic South Pass City, where thousands of Oregon Trail travelers crossed the Continental Divide. Traversing the wide-open spaces of south-central Wyoming, this section ends in Rawlins. (ISBN 978-0-935108-55-2)

#4 RAWLINS, WYOMING TO SALIDA, COLORADO (379 miles). After leaving Rawlins, the route enters Colorado at higher altitudes and into forests. The resort town of Steamboat Springs is a good place to restock supplies. The route crosses the Colorado River and winds its way over several passes into Silverthorne, and eventually down in South Park basin. It then climbs back into the mountains, and drops into Salida. (ISBN 978-0-935108-56-9)

#5 SALIDA, COLORADO TO GRANTS, NEW MEXICO (545 miles). This section of the GDMBR climbs out of Colorado and into New Mexico. In southern Colorado the terrain turns more southwest-canyon-country in nature, and Hispanic influences are obvious in the small settlements near the route. The high San Juan Mountains south of Del Norte, meanwhile, provide astonishing contrasts from the scarred Summitville mining district to some of the prettiest high-country meadows found in the southern Rockies. (ISBN 978-0-935108-57-6)

#6 GRANTS, NEW MEXICO TO ANTELOPE WELLS, NEW MEXICO (396 miles). Leaving Grants, the route remains on the east side of the Continental Divide until just north of Pie Town, where it crosses to the west side. After skirting the barren Plains of San Augustin, the route arrives in Silver City, where riders make their way to the international border at Antelope Wells. (ISBN 978-0-935108-58-3)

Jonny Copp, who had died tragically in an avalanche, Jeremy resolved to travel in the four cardinal directions—north, south, east, and west—to challenge himself on first ascents, and to explore a balance project, his climbing partners included Tommy Caldwell, Mark Jenkins, Jeff Drumlond, Corey Rich, and Hayden Kennedy. Visit Jeremy—and see a film is a rich, textured, and soulful visual exploration of summits lost and achieved.

Following is an index of titles sorted by region. We’ve indexed guidebooks here to make it easy to find the ones that are near you. Also included are some narrative adventures, because it’s always fun to read stories that took place near where you live or in a faraway place you’re interested in. A little more than half our catalog can be organized regionally. But don’t forget about all those sports instructional, general lifestyle topics, and wild, sweet, and romantic tales that aren’t in this index. You need to browse through the pages here to find those treasures or, if you know the title, you can find them in the Title Index.
