Always, Jackie

With a Brooklyn Dodgers cap on head and baseball mitt in hand, eight-year-old Ronnie Rabinovitz was just another youngster with curveball hopes and fastball dreams at a Braves-Dodgers game in Milwaukee. His hero? Jackie Robinson, the first black ballplayer in the major leagues and a living legend. Always, Jackie is the unbelievable yet true story of when Ronnie met Jackie in the 1950s and how the two became lifelong friends. Striking illustrations, based on archival photographs, complement the text and help bring the story to life.

J. Patrick Lewis has earned a lofty reputation in children’s publishing, having authored more than 100 books. From 2011 to 2013, he served as Children’s Poet Laureate of the United States. Among his other honors are the 2011 National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) Excellence in Children’s Poetry Award and the Ohioana Awards’ 2004 Alice Louise Wood Memorial Prize.

John Thompson played baseball in college before turning his focus to art. He has since worked as an illustrator for an array of clients, from Sports Illustrated to the U.S. Air Force, and has taught for more than two decades at Syracuse University. He lives in New York.

A Wish Is a Seed

When a child makes a wish, where does it go? Borne on a tiny seed, it floats with the wind across the world. Like many dreams, it passes through dark and crowded places before it tumbles down, “still and unseen,” to take root and grow. When the time is right, the wish blooms and sends its seeds of hope into the world to be shared. A Wish Is a Seed is a poetic celebration of the power and potential of hope, often hidden in small packages and unexpected places.

Jessica Young grew up in Ontario, Canada. She loves writing picture books and chapter books and sharing the creative process with students. This is her first picture book for Creative Editions.

My Mastodon

Sybilla Peale lives with her large, artistic family at America’s first museum. Life there is full of adventure but also hard work! One day, Sybilla helps her papa and her big brother Rembrandt assemble the bones of a magnificent mastodon. She starts visiting her fossilized friend for regular tea parties and chats. But then her mastodon is invited to tour Europe, and she is heartbroken. Will Sybilla be content to share her best friend with the world?

Barbara Lowell is the author of Sparky & Spike: Charles Schulz and the Wildest, Smartest Dog Ever. She lives with her family in Oklahoma.

Antonio Marinoni is an Italian illustrator and designer whose work has been featured at the Bologna Children’s Book Fair. This is his first book for Creative Editions.

Yusra Swims

As a talented young swimmer growing up in Damascus, Yusra Mardini’s dream was to represent her country by competing in the Olympics. But then civil war broke out, destroying her home and putting her very life at risk. Julie Abery’s spare, rhyming verse relates the story of Yusra’s journey from her beloved Syria to a sinking boat on the Aegean to Germany, where Yusra finally swims again and realizes her dream.

Julie Abery is a children’s book author and a former preschool teacher. Originally from England, she lives in Switzerland. This is her first book for Creative Editions.

Sally Deng is an artist whose work has been recognized by American Illustration, the Society of Illustrators, and 3x3, as well as featured in publications such as the New York Times, the Atlantic, and the New Yorker. She lives near Los Angeles.

I type on paper.
The paper wraps around the platen.

When I get to the end of the line.
I ring the bell.

I make beautiful sounds.
Typewriter

When a Russian writer immigrates to New York City, he does not take his pillow or even his coat—but he does take his beloved typewriter. Life in America is challenging, and instead of typing the next great Russian-American novel, the typewriter is neglected and eventually cast to the curb. Its story isn’t finished yet, though: it will click, clack, and ring to life with a new owner—someone whose own history is still in the making.

Yevgenia Nayberg is an illustrator, painter, and set and costume designer. Originally from Kiev, Ukraine, she now lives in New York City. She wrote and illustrated this picture book—her first one for Creative Editions.
