• Optimal nutrition for backcountry athletes who are frequently off the grid for a day or more at a time
• First outdoor-nutrition book offered by a James Beard–award-winning chef!
• 100 easy, delicious recipes

Climbing partners Maria Hines, a James Beard–award-winning chef, and Mercedes Pollmeier, an NSCA-certified strength and conditioning specialist and Level 2 nutritionist, decided that they’d had enough of packaged bars and goos. As a celebrated chef, Hines can make anything taste great, and Pollmeier knows the science behind exercise nutrition. On their long drives to crags an idea blossomed: write a nutrition book for mountain sports.

Peak Nutrition details 100 simple and tasty recipes within the context of outdoor goals and body science: motivation, recovery, hydration; how our digestive system works; how food provides energy; effects of weather and altitude; the relationship between food, muscle, and cramping; how nutrition relates to mental and physical stress; and much more. The authors also explore shifting eating habits and ways to develop a healthier approach, whether bouldering, climbing, backcountry skiing, mountain biking, trekking, or trail running. “Peak Profiles” offer food tips from elite athletes such as backcountry boarder Jeremy Jones and climber Sasha Diguilian and sample menus help readers plan what to prep and pack.

Winner of the 2009 James Beard Award for Best Chef Northwest, MARIA HINES was also named one of Food & Wine magazine’s 10 Best New Chefs in 2005. Her organic flagship restaurant, Tilth, opened in 2006 and remains one of the nation’s top culinary destinations. As an avid climber, she has climbed three routes on El Capitan in Yosemite among other ascents.

MERCEDES POLLMEIER is an NSCA-certified strength and conditioning specialist based in Seattle, with degrees in exercise science and human movement, and holds Level 2 nutrition certification. Currently she is the fitness & training manager for Seattle Bouldering Project.

Does this sound familiar?

You stayed up a little late eating and drinking with friends, knowing full well you have to get up at 7 a.m. to go climbing with a partner. Tired and groggy, you slam a couple cups of coffee (as opposed to water) and grab a banana. While on the road to the crag, you grab a double espresso, just to make sure you crush it on the rocks and keep the stoke level high. You say to yourself, “Self, I should probably purchase that giant, fresh-baked cinnamon roll, covered in icing, to get some carb loading in for my one day out this week. That’ll keep me going.” Now you’re good to go!

Reaching your destination, you hop out of the car, charging the approach, super jittery and practically foaming at the mouth with excitement. Visions of ascending hard fill your mind. But by the time you get through a few warm-up pitches, you start to feel lethargic. Focusing becomes difficult; your motivation dwindles. It’s the familiar feeling of bonking. But it’s your only day outside, so you charge ahead as best you can. Getting into the harder climbing, your hands cramp up and your technique falls apart. You feel a bit nauseous, and the top of the route is epically far away. You’re not about to let your climbing partner down, so you trudge through the rest of the climb. You’re exhausted at the end of the day. It takes you a full day to recover, and that nagging overuse injury has really got your attention now. Perhaps the empty carbs and coffee combo wasn’t the best fuel. You decide to change your ways.

I’ve been a recreational mountain athlete for 15 years. I started as a climbing gym bunny, then moved on to outdoor sport climbing trips abroad, traditional climbing, big wall climbing in Yosemite Valley, outdoor bouldering, and alpine rock climbing. In all these years, I’ve yet to come across a comprehensive nutritional cookbook that is dedicated to mountain sports. Professional and recreational mountain athletes require proper nutrition to fuel their body, mind, and spirit. This book is for outdoor athletes who want to perform at their best.

—Maria Hines, chef, restaurateur, climber

PREFACE

(excerpted from Peak Nutrition, by Maria Hines and Mercedes Pollmeier)
• 366 inspiring observations from the natural world
• Organized by season
• Excellent gift to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Earth Day (April 22, 2020)

Earth Almanac presents the greatest hits of North American nature! Structured around phenology, which is the study of seasonal patterns in nature, the day-by-day descriptions offer insight into activities and connections throughout the natural world.

Beginning with the Winter Solstice in December, Earth Almanac highlights a wide range of natural history, including mammals, birds, fish, reptiles, insects, intertidal and marine life, trees, plants, fungi, weather phenomenon, geology, astronomy, notable environmental activists, and more, and reveals the ebb and flow of nature across the planet. Each season features more than 90 entries, and sidebars throughout provide calls to environmental action, citizen science opportunities, and details on special dates or holidays. The book can be enjoyed one day, month, or season at a time—dip in and out as you observe the world around you.

A vagabond naturalist, KEN KEFFER has been involved in projects from monitoring small mammal populations in Grand Teton National Park to studying Bactrian camels in Mongolia. He has also worked as an environmental educator. A regular contributor to Birds & Blooms magazine, Ken is the author of eight books on nature subjects for both children and adults and currently lives in Des Moines, Iowa.

ARTIST JEREMY COLLINS is known for his unique drawings and maps featured in books, films, and commercial work and recognized throughout the outdoor industry. He is the author of Drawn: The Art of Ascent (Mountaineers Books, 2015) and the Wild Lines calendars.

A unique approach to bird watching that focuses on what birds eat and how, while sharing ways to support them in our own backyards

- Explains bird physiology and natural diets
- Robust selection of photographs
- Bird science made easy

In North America, more than 900 bird species have natural diets ranging from seeds, foliage, nectar, and nuts to fish, insects, crustaceans, carrion, and mammals—and sometimes other birds. As birds have adopted various diets, their anatomy and behavior have evolved in response. The unending search for food, however, also places birds directly in the path of three accelerating changes: urbanization, pollution, and climate change.

What Birds Eat explores the senses that birds depend on—sight, sound, odor, taste, and touch—and their food ingestion, with a special look at bird crops, gizzards, and the digestive adaptations that distinguish birds from other animal groups. Extensive feeding profiles then detail what various species eat naturally and how we can support those diets in backyards and feeders. What Birds Eat enriches our understanding, allowing us to engage more meaningfully with birds along the way.

KIM LONG is a professional writer, researcher, graphic artist, and photographer who has worked on a number of natural history projects throughout his career. He is the author or co-author of 22 books, including two books about birds, Owls (1998) and Hummingbirds (1997). He has contributed to the Encyclopedia Britannica as a field editor and has created and produced dozens of calendars, with topics that include squirrels, potatoes, salumi, and bicycles. He was a book reviewer for Kirkus, Publishers Weekly, and The Bloomsbury Review and has reviewed hundreds of nonfiction titles over a thirty-year period. Kim lives in Denver.

A renowned expert shows how to photograph the stunning beauty of birds, from eggs in a nest to the captivating act of flight.

- Published in partnership with the Cornell Lab of Ornithology
- Ideal for backyard birders, hikers, travelers
- Includes digital editing instruction and Lightroom tips

Photography: Birds explains how to photograph birds—whether in your backyard or at a birding destination—detailing unique issues that confront photographers of all levels and providing the best guidance for capturing the beauty and splendor of our feathered friends.

Gerrit Vyn, an award-winning bird photographer, videographer, and sound recorder, has become renowned for his ability to capture birds, especially for the prestigious Cornell Lab of Ornithology. In this new guide, he reveals his methods and shares how to photograph birds based on location, behavior, identification, and storytelling. Vyn details the range of technical considerations, giving clear instruction and advice, as well as the creative decisions a photographer must make on lighting, framing, timing, and motion. He also discusses situations unique to bird photographers: dealing with habituated or tame birds, approaching feeders, utilizing blinds, and more. Once captured, digital images can be digitally refined, so Vyn delves into the procedures that elevate an image from mundane to striking, using Adobe Lightroom. Throughout, Vyn emphasizes an ethical approach to observing and interacting with the birds around us.

GERRIT VYN is a wildlife photographer and cinematographer for the Cornell Lab of Ornithology, a Senior Fellow at the International League of Conservation Photographers, and has been photographing birds and wildlife professionally for the last 25 years. His most recent book, The Living Bird, was a New York Times Bestseller and National Outdoor Book Award winner. Gerrit’s work is published regularly in magazines, including National Geographic, BBC Wildlife, and Audubon, and has been featured in media outlets including NPR’s Fresh Air with Terry Gross, Morning Edition, and The Seattle Times.

NATURAL HISTORY/NORTHWEST | Rights: World

A distinctive, funny, inspiring, and intimate dive into urban nature

• City dweller’s Rx for nature deficit syndrome
• Explore urban species across four seasons and right outside your door
• Features a chapter on becoming a backyard naturalist

With wonder and a sense of humor, Nature Obscura author Kelly Brenner aims to help us rediscover our connection to the natural world that is just outside our front door—we just need to know where to look.

Through explorations of a rich and varied urban landscape, Brenner reveals the complex micro-habitats and surprising nature found in the middle of a city. In her hometown of Seattle, which has plowed down hills, cut through the land to connect fresh- and saltwater, and paved over much of the rest, she exposes a diverse range of strange and unknown creatures. From shore to wetland, forest to neighborhood park, and graveyard to backyard, Brenner uncovers how our land alterations have impacted nature, for good and bad, through the wildlife and plants that live alongside us, often unseen. These stories meld together, in the same way our ecosystems, species, and human history are interconnected across the urban environment.

KELLY BRENNER is a naturalist and writer based in Seattle with a focus on urban nature. In 2009 she founded The Metropolitan Field Guide, a blog for ideas, thoughts, and resources for the design of urban wildlife habitat. She has since contributed articles to a variety of other websites and publications including ParentMap, The Nature of Cities, Sustainable Cities Collective, Native Plants and Wildlife Gardens, Seattle Audubon, Local Ecologist, and others.

BIOGRAPHY/ADVENTURE/MOUNTAINEERING

Christine Boskoff was a pioneer in female high-altitude climbing and one of the first women to own and lead mountain guide services.

• One of America’s leading mountaineers and guides
• At the time of her death, she held the record for most 8000-meter peaks climbed by a woman (six)
• Accessible, powerful story for fans of adventure

Edge of the Map is equal parts inspiring, dramatic, and heartbreaking. One of America’s greatest female mountain guides, Christine Boskoff was a world-renowned high-altitude mountaineer when she and her partner died in an avalanche in 2006. Charismatic, principled, and humble, Boskoff was also a deeply loved role model to her climbing partners and the Sherpa community.

Edge of the Map traces the sharp twists and turns in Boskoff’s life, from her early years as a Lockheed engineer, through her first successes in the climbing world, to her purchase of Seattle-based Mountain Madness after owner and climber Scott Fischer died in the 1996 Everest disaster. Her life was one of constant achievement—until her husband, Keith Boskoff, committed suicide in 1999. The story follows Boskoff as she recovers and moves on to even bigger peaks, earning acclaim as a world-class mountaineer, then later as she finds a second love and alpine partnership with legendary Colorado climber Charlie Fowler.

JOHANNA GARTON interviewed more than 30 friends and family of Christine Boskoff and Charlie Fowler, including notable climbers such as Peter Habeler, Nazir Sabir, Willie Benegas, Phil Powers, Mark Gunlogson (current owner of Mountain Madness), Hector Ponce de Leon, Steve Swenson, and Conrad Anker. Fluent in Mandarin, Johanna also spent several weeks conducting research and interviews near the site of Boskoff’s death in China. In addition to writing, she is the owner of Missionworks Consulting, a nonprofit management-consulting firm in Denver where she lives.

BARBARA SAVAGE
FOREWORD BY TARA AUSTEN WEAVER

AVAILABLE IN MARCH

352 pages | 6 x 9 | $18.95 | paperback | 1 map

MEMOIR/TRAVEL/BICYCLING | Rights: World

An inspirational classic of travel and cycling adventure, now in an all-new edition!

- Coinciding with Mountaineers Books’ 60th anniversary, a new edition of our bestselling adventure title!
- An intimate, ebullient, and utterly honest chronicle of a biking journey across North America and around the world
- More than 90,000 copies sold to date

Miles from Nowhere is the story of Barbara and Larry Savage’s sometimes dangerous, often zany, but ultimately rewarding 23,000-mile bicycle odyssey, which took them through 25 countries in two years. Along the way, these near-neophyte cyclists on their ten-speeds encountered warm-hearted strangers eager to share food and shelter, bicycle-hating drivers who ran them off the road, various wild animals (including an attack camel), rock-throwing Egyptians, overprotective Thai policeman, motherly New Zealanders, meteorological disasters, bodily indignities, and great personal joys. The stress of traveling together constantly tested yet strengthened the young couple’s relationship and as their trip ends, you’ll find yourself yearning for Barbara and Larry to jump back on their bikes and keep pedaling.

Originally published in 1983, Miles from Nowhere has provided inspiration for legions of modern travel-adventurers and writers.

Tragically, BARBARA SAVAGE was killed in a cycling accident near her home in Santa Barbara just before this book was originally published. To honor her memory, her husband, Larry, has continued to donate the book’s royalties in support of other first-time adventure writers.

TARA AUSTEN WEAVER writes about food, travel, culture, the environment, art, and adventure in its many guises. She is the author of three books, including The Butcher and the Vegetarian (Rodale, 2010) and Orchard House (Ballantine, 2015). She is also the author of the award-winning blog Tea & Cookies. Weaver lives in Seattle.

Spend the day at one of the oldest—and most famous—parks on the West Coast!

- Only current and comprehensive guide to the park
- Community resource for all things Griffith Park—including 30-plus hikes
- Published in advance of park’s 125th anniversary

People all over the world have seen Los Angeles’s famed “Hollywood” sign and the iconic domed Griffith Observatory. Both are part of Griffith Park, a place visited by more than 10 million people each year—more than Yosemite and Grand Canyon National Parks combined.

Rugged and vast, the 4,511-acre Griffith Park encompasses a sprawling 70-mile long network of trails, ranging from paved paths through manicured landscapes to challenging ridgeline climbs, and is a destination for hikers, trail runners, cyclists, equestrians, picnickers, and museum-goers. It’s a unique outdoor space in a city that is not well known for its outdoor amenities. Discovering Griffith Park uses the park’s extensive trail network as an anchor to explore the park in full, whether on foot, wheel, or hoof. Readers will also find out where the best views of the Hollywood sign are, where they can catch free Shakespeare on summer evenings, and how to attend one of the legendary Los Angeles Breakfast Club meetings for good food, good friends, and a bit of early morning learning.

Roll out a blanket on a sunny afternoon, connect the dots on a biking loop, or find a sledding hill in winter

• 165 Denver parks with descriptions and amenities
• Author is an established urban walker and neighborhood expert

This easy-to-use, informative, and fun guidebook covers the range of what Denver has to offer, from tiny pocket parks to expansive open space, classic park facilities to conservation zones. It even explores destination parks in the foothills just beyond the city. Each park’s listing includes:

• Icons for key features: accessibility, kid-friendly, dog-friendly, views, historic significance, public art, gardens, unpaved trails, paved trails, lakefront, riverfront, spray park/wading pool, horseback riding and—because it’s Denver—winter sports.
• Notes for other major amenities, such as restrooms, shelters, playgrounds, and more
• Public transportation, driving, and parking directions
• Details on each park’s history and size
• History and descriptive highlights such as sledding hills, water features, mountain biking paths, and more
• Ways to extend your park visit with easy add-on walks or bike rides to other nearby parks or attractions

Discovering Denver Parks will keep families, walkers, dog-lovers, and kids of all ages busy with year-round exploration and fun!

CHRIS ENGLERT moved to Denver in 2013 and decided to walk all of Denver's trails and neighborhoods. Walking raised questions for her: why were parks named the way they were, where could she find a good place for kids to play, and what made each park special? She has since become the authority on Denver's parks and trails. She is also the author of Best Urban Hikes: Denver (Colorado Mountain Club Press, 2020).

GUIDEBOOKS/HIKING/COLORADO | Rights: World

This guide is the first and only scramble-specific guide to the best-of-the-best scrambles and scramble link-ups on the iconic Flatirons of Boulder, Colorado.

In 2017 alone, SIMON TESTA gained almost 1.2 million vertical feet on foot, of which over 220,000 feet was “on-rock” scrambling in the Flatirons. A geologist by profession, Simon has also worked as an interpretive ranger and climbing ranger. He lives with his family in Boulder.

- Detailed descriptions for 25 scrambles and link-ups with over 25,000 feet of scrambling
- Color photos of the start of each route and route overviews using high-resolution aerial imagery
- Offers a varied selection, and suggested progression, of scrambles from Class 4 to 5.4

The Best Flatirons Scrambles is a must-have for anyone interested in the best-of-the-best scrambles on the iconic sandstone slabs of Boulder’s Flatirons. These rock formations contain a high-concentration of world-class scrambling, including routes over 1,000 feet in length. Many of the scrambles combine well together to provide excellent link-ups of classic routes. This is the first and only scrambling-specific guide available for the Flatiron and describes over 25,000 feet of scrambling on twenty-five routes and scramble link-ups that range in difficulty from Class 4 to 5.4 and in length from 200 feet to almost 6,000 feet.

This guide is easy-to-follow, conveniently fits in a pocket or pack and is divided into four sections based on the designated trailheads. Each trailhead section includes individual route and scramble link-up descriptions and contains information on the scramble length, difficulty, overall distance, and elevation gain. The scramble descriptions include details of the approach, route and descent, as well as color photos showing the start of each route and route overviews using high-resolution aerial imagery.

Expert local hiking guide Alexandra Kenin offers a wide range of options, from leg stretchers overlooking the Bay Area at Tilden Regional Park to an afternoon stroll through the wineries around Jack London Square to a 6-mile hike along the slopes of Mount Diablo to spot seasonal waterfalls. Other features include:

• Trailhead locations, including public transit options
• Rated appeal for walkers, runners, or hikers
• Info for families and dog owners
• Trail distance, elevation gain, high point, amenities
• Sidebars on area history, nature, tips, and sights
• Historic trails, coastal trails, stairways, peak bagging

ALEXANDRA KENIN is the founder of Urban Hiker SF, a hiking tour company that helps people explore the stairways, hills, hiking trails, and history of the San Francisco Bay Area. She is also the author of Urban Trails: San Francisco (Mountaineers Books, 2016).

Announcing the return of analog—giftjy journals for recording your outdoor adventures

• Includes prompts for notes, as well as space for stories and drawings
• Heavy, textured covers and lay-flat bindings
• Handy pocket size with rounded corners

Keep notes and drawings, and record your adventures with spaces for location, date, time to finish, difficulty, highlights, partners, and more. There is also ample space for keeping an account of your climb, trek, or the birds you’ve identified. Artists can use the space for drawings, while poets can create haiku or sonnets.

These journals make great gifts for outdoor enthusiasts. They are rugged and inexpensive, and just what many people want in an adventure—an analog activity with no screen or battery.

An Evenki reindeer herder gathers his herd in a wooden corral near the Lena River in Siberia. A vast store of ancient carbon lies trapped under the permafrost surface of this land, but as global warming melts the permafrost, carbon dioxide and methane is releasing into the atmosphere—potentially creating a carbon bomb. Photo by Chris Linder from The Big Thaw
Western Meadowlark with grasshopper lunch, from What Birds Eat

In general, insects provide more nutrition than seeds, especially protein, a strong influence on foraging birds, particularly when feeding nestlings.

Food Grown Right, In Your Backyard is McCrate and Halm's "The zucchini are now on the sidewalk—who has time to "What on earth is that creature crawling on the tomatoes?" "Do I really need to buy fertilizer?" "My backyard is too small; how can I make space for a garden?" As the founders of the nationally recognized Seattle Urban Farm Co., Colin McCrate and Brad Halm have heard it all:

In response to the rising interest in homegrown foods, urban farming workshops. Visit them teach community classes and lead private gardening instruction, they building gardens and providing quite a few did. In addition to answer one simple question:

Colin McCrate
Brad Halm

and halm teach beginning growers the techniques of organic food production and how to build a garden for everyone from busy families to groups of renters to trendy restaurants. Along the way, McCrate gardens for McCrate & Halm have heard it all:

In simple, accessible terms, they explain key topics, including:

- Crop Profiles—the very best vegetables, herbs, edible flowers, and berries for your city farm
- Essential skills for planting, care, and harvest
- Plant Life 101—what are vegetables, anyway, and what should you eat?
- Watering and irrigation
- Creating container gardens
- Crop planning techniques
- Prepare soil, including fertilizer and compost

Quick-reference tables, accounts of other beginning gardeners, informative full-color photographs, and step-by-step instructions all come together in this unique, friendly guide that proves, once and for all, that anyone can develop a "green thumb"!

WILDERNESS ORIGINAL

A YEAR IN PARADISE
Following is an index of titles sorted by region. We’ve indexed guidebooks here to make it easy to find the ones that are near you. Also included are some narrative adventures, because it’s always fun to read stories that took place near where you live or in a faraway place you’re interested in. A little more than half of our catalog can be organized regionally. But don’t forget about all those sports instructional, general lifestyle topics, and wild, sweet, and romantic tales that aren’t in this index. You need to browse through the pages here to find those treasures or, if you know the title, you can find them in the Title Index.
